

Housewarming: A Front Room in the 1970s

Enjoy exclusive late-night access to our galleries for an evening themed and inspired by A Terraced House in 1978, curated by Dr. Michael McMillan.

About This Event

This Museum Late will be an opportunity to take a closer look into A Terraced House in 1978 and the story of a working class British Caribbean family living in a council house on De Beauvoir Estate, Hoxton during the 1970s. A Terraced House in 1978 is an iteration of the much praised and internationally exhibited The Front Room by writer, playwright, artist/curator and scholar Michael McMillan.

As you explore, discover the personal stories and histories woven throughout our new galleries. We'll be open late, offering you the chance to explore our Rooms Through Time, featuring period rooms depicting domestic life and homemaking from the last 400 years. To book and see the full programme, please visit: <https://www.museumofthehome.org.uk/whatson/events/housewarming-a-front-room-in-the-1970s/>

Event Time

Thu,
24th Apr
2025

6:00pm - 9:00pm

Event Price

Free

Event Location

Museum of the Home
136 Kingsland Rd,
London
E2 8EA

This event is free, however, there might be paid elements within this event.

Accessibility Information

There are passenger lifts between floors and a vertical platform lift from the Home Galleries to the Gardens Through Time. For step-free access to the Collections Display on the first floor please ask a member of our team for assistance. There is an accessible toilet suitable for wheelchair users in the reception area and three further accessible toilets across the Museum. Manual wheelchairs are available to borrow for use in our galleries and gardens. We do not operate a wheelchair booking system. If you would like to borrow a wheelchair, please ask at the information desk in the reception space when you arrive.

