

Hackney Black Women Writers' Group at Shoreditch Library

Hosted by Lisa Ogun', these warm and supportive writing sessions are for African and African-Caribbean women looking to hone their writing skills, share their creative voice and feel inspired by listening to others.

About This Event

Lisa Ogun' is a Black, female, disabled artist of African & Caribbean heritages, possessing a variety of creative skills, which include writing; journalistic theatre-reviewing and sub-editing; performing; directing; choreographing; producing; dramaturgy; crafting; and creative workshop facilitation. Lisa is co-writing and co-producing two plays: one an international initiative to raise the awareness of the hidden issue of African Diaspora immigrant homelessness, and the other to expose the scandal of rogue landlords. No booking is required to attend. This event will take place on the last Tuesday of every month.

Accessibility Information

Shoreditch Library is fully accessible. For further accessibility information, please contact libraries@hackney.gov.uk

 Event Time

Tue, 26th
Mar 2024

6:00pm - 7:30pm

 Event Price

Free

 Event Location

Shoreditch Library

80 Hoxton St, London

N1 6LP

